General information

Review of your file

As a rule, we have three years in which to carry out another review of your file and, if applicable, send you a notice of reassessment. If you forgot to claim a deduction or tax credit, you generally have ten years to request an adjustment by completing form TP-1-R-V. Please keep your supporting documents in case you are asked to provide them.

Registering for direct deposit

Do you have an account with a financial institution that has an establishment in Canada? If so, we can deposit any amounts owed to you directly into your account, provided you are registered for direct deposit. You can register for direct deposit

- online on our website at revenuquebec.ca; or
- by completing a Request for Direct Deposit (form LM-3-V), available on our website and at our offices.

You do not agree with your notice of assessment

If you do not agree with your notice of assessment, you can contact us. If the matter is not resolved to your satisfaction, you can file an objection. To do so, complete form MR-93.1.1-V, Notice of Objection, or write a letter to the attention of the Director of the Direction des oppositions. In either case, be sure to state the reasons why you disagree with the notice. Send the form or letter to one of our offices.

You must submit your notice of objection by whichever of the following dates is more advantageous for you: 90 days after the date of this notice; or one year after the deadline for filing your income tax return.

You cannot contest this notice of assessment if it was issued as a result of a decision on an objection.

Confidentiality of tax data

We respect and protect the confidentiality of the information you provide to us. Your tax data is stored and used only as allowed by law. In applying fiscal laws, the Minister of Revenue may compare the information on file with information obtained from other government departments, public bodies or municipalities. Under some circumstances, the Minister may transmit the information to other government departments and agencies.
